

Animal Communication Consultations with Danika Nadzan

For over two decades, I've done phone and email consultations to help pet owners all over the world understand their pets (whatever the species) and create a better life with them. I also help those who are already using telepathy to confirm the information they've received.

I am available for phone consultations by appointment. The cost is $35 for 15 minutes, $50 for 30 minutes, or $80 for 60 minutes, paid by check or card after the consultation. (Please note that I no longer do Lost Animal consultations. You may find this free document helpful.)

The consultation can include a number of animals and issues, and most of my calls last about 30 minutes, but we can take as much time as you need. An email consultation costs the same.

How does it work?

Because animal communication is done telepathically, there is no need for the animal to be present. It works with animals who are presently living with you, or who have already passed on. (I only do consultations for pets who are part of your family, not someone else's.)

When you schedule a consultation, I'll ask you to email me one or two digital photos of your pet(s) that show the face and body clearly.

I'll also need some basic information about your animal friend(s): name, age, gender, breed/coloring, and how long they've lived with you. About 15 minutes before your appointment, I'll make contact with your pet(s) to do a physical scan (I do not charge for this time.)

At your appointment time, I will re-establish contact, you may ask your questions, and I'll interpret the answers and impressions I receive. (For an email consultation, you would simply email your questions to me, and I contact the pet(s) and respond by email.)

What kind of questions can I ask?

The types of questions you can ask your pet(s) are as varied as the types of people, animals, and situations involved. For example, animal communication may help discover the reasons for recent behavior changes and personality conflicts, or how your pet feels emotionally. It may also help to discover the underlying emotional problems associated with some medical conditions, and may give you insights into the animal's wishes. This is particularly helpful in situations where other animals or people are involved, or when the issue of euthanasia arises.

Please Note: Animal communication is never a substitute for proper veterinary care, training, nutrition, exercise, and love. If your pet is experiencing a health problem, consult your veterinarian before contacting me. I have no veterinary background and cannot offer diagnoses or treatment options.

To schedule a consultation, please email me at MountainStar57@gmail.com or call 215-469-4029.

I am also available for local in-person consultations for a special event, or for a number of people at a your location.
